back in - he then started asking me a ~~lot~~ bunch of questions (personal) and I told him it was none of his concern. I had some flowers on my kitchen table a friend had sent me, and he started on them, I told him "at least I didn't have to pay for them myself" and he said "no, but you f--- him". I told him to leave and he called me a whore - so I slapped him ^{with} my right hand across his right cheek and he turned his head and said "hit me again" - I said "no, I don't want to hit you again, I just want you to get out of my house." He said "make me" ^{he pushed me with his hands on my shoulders -} I went to the phone to call the police - he grabbed the phone out of my hand and jerked it out of the wall. Finally he went to the door - still calling me a whore the whole time - he was at the front door and wouldn't go on out and I was trying to push him out the door and I slapped him again - telling him to "get out, just get out" finally he went out - I guess he went to his car, I was getting the phone fixed when he came back in and he asked if I was going to let him see the kids, he got down on his knees and was begging - I told him to "get out of my house now!" When he left he said "I see you in jail" and I said "no, in jail's where you'll be."

RW

I told him prior to this incident that I did not want him there at my house - He uses the twins as an excuse to get in my face. I don't like that and I sure don't want to be subjected to this kind of treatment. Luckily the kids (older 2) were outside when all of this occurred.
