SUBJECT: Reducing risk associated with possible coronavirus exposure in one House group in protective isolation on January 6th

On Wednesday January 6, many members of the House community were in protective isolation in room located in a large committee hearing space. The time in this room was several hours for some and briefer for others.

During this time, individuals may have been exposed to another occupant with coronavirus infection. Please continue your usual daily coronavirus risk reduction measures (daily symptom inventory checklist, mask wear, and social distancing).

Additionally, individuals should obtain an RT-PCR coronavirus test next week as a precaution.
