

To whom it may concern:

Your website located at www.kikster.com contains graphics copyrighted to and owned by RCMVM, Inc, as the of Midgets vs. Mascots.

Be advised that the clip you are currently exhibiting which displays Mr. Gary Coleman's male genitalia at <http://kikster.com/story/content/674/KIKSTER-EXCLUSIVE-GARY-COLEMAN-EXPOSED...LITERALLY> is a direct and blatant violation of our Rights and quite frankly offensive on so many disturbing levels.

Midgets vs Mascots, directed by Ron Carlson was Gary Coleman's final film performance. The Award winning festival film took bronze at Tirbeca Film Festival in 2009 and has gone on to become a cult hit. The filmmakers all take their hat off to Gary for giving the performance of his life and have donated a percentage of the proceeds of the film to The National Kidney Association of America.

Your use of the film clip on a commercial web page is illegal under copyright law and forbidden. Your use of the clip must immediately cease.

These obvious copyright infractions leave you with the following options:

- (1) You will consider this a cease and desist notice and remove all of my copyrighted graphics from your site immediately.
- (2) You pay RCMVM, Inc. $10,000,000.00 for the commercial use of our link which will be donated to The National Kidney Association in the memory of Mr. Coleman.

As a courtesy to you, I have chosen not to contact or copy your web hosting company with this initial notification.

I expect response to this email in a timely manner within 72 hours either by the removal of the copyrighted images or via email stating your intentions.

Be advised that if no response is received, my next step will be to contact your web host (with my proof and sworn statement of copyright) as they may become involved in any legal action I may have to pursue to obtain compliance.

Please understand that this letter is not a warning or threat. It is being sent to you as part of a legal process that must be followed in an effort to maintain my legal rights. You can put an immediate stop to this process by acting in accordance with this offer of good faith.

Thank you,

RON CARLSON
