DMX is the reason I forgave my father after he passed for his years of addiction.

We met in 2017 after I heard him from my room in the hallway of my hotel. It was all divine intervention. I ran to the hallway & met him. We spoke for 15 mins. (1/4)

We spoke about addiction & he encouraged me to forgive my father for what he couldn't control.

He said "forgive him". I needed to hear that. Of all people, it came from someone I grew up listening to bc of my dad. (2/4)

Sometimes in the moment you don't understand the significance of a moment until it's passed. To this day, I credit X for helping me learn forgiveness.

I am praying that he gives himself grace — in this lifetime and beyond. His words and impact have left a deep legacy. (3/4)

God used him & his words as a vessel in this lifetime — words that will outlive his earthly existence. Prayers & light to his children and family. May he rest in the power that many of us found in his words & art. ❤️ (4/4)
